BRENT TUSSEY

Cornerstone Homes

Seeing a need for a transparently priced, custom homebuilding business that would empower owners to pay actual invoices for their homes, Brent Tussey launched Cornerstone Homes in 2017. After working professionally in the building and real estate industry for more than two decades, Tussey's greatest joy today is helping clients achieve their dream homes.

"Being able to use my finance background and degree in organizational management to build homes on time and on budget is the greatest reward for me," Tussey said. "The excitement of move-in day is special with each home and each family."

Cornerstone is also a registered builder with the local Building Industrial Association, providing homes for those in need through the association's BIA Cares program. Tussey underscored that he's dedicated to supporting local businesses, even if ordering items from abroad might have saved him a few more dollars here or there. This dedication to public service also extends to Tussey's leadership style and the overall experience for his customers.

"I have a faith-based, servant leadership style," he explained. "I consider homeowners as part of my team and we work together. I believe in showing respect and compassion to everyone you work with and surrounding yourself with the best team members available."
